

Glyphis (Galactic Common, Rudishva, Niravairi)	Glyphis is the philosophical and literary form of writing used by the galactic peoples. Based on Glyphik, it selected a limited set of Glyphik's symbols and modified them to create a fixed set of letters that emulated the sounds created by the main galactic races. This pared-down version of Glyphik resulted in an alphabet of 48 characters. Individual races could and did modify the basic system to reflect cultural and linguistic differences. The rudishva version, for instance, is highly cursive, with the 48 characters being linked by flourishes, curlicues, and so forth.
Semi-Glyphik (Varumani, Kaliyani, Varuda)	In the broadest terms, Semi-glyphik refers to any smaller set of symbolic characters or runes drawn from the larger corpus of Glyphik. Indeed, Glyphis itself might be considered to be but one form of Semi-glyphik. In the context of Arden Vul, however, 'Semi-glyphik' properly refers to the simplified systems of writing developed by the different starfaring races after the crash of the Beacon, and especially after the demise of the rudishva hegemony. Today, only the varumani and the kaliyani still use this system, as the few remaining debased varuda are not literate. Over the years, the varumani version of Semi-glyphik has mutated into system that combines an angular set of 15 letters with about 100 concept- and action-oriented symbols. The kaliyani version has developed into a far more fluid, rounded, and cursive example: it includes 13 letters and a corpus of 110 symbols. Because varumani and kaliyani Semi-glyphik have developed of over two millennia without cross-fertilization of words and concepts, the two systems are almost entirely unintelligible to each other.
Heqeti Runic (Heqeti)	Heqeti Runic combines a set of twelve letters with a system of several hundred pictographic symbols. It is fairly primitive, and does not lend itself to long narrative, philosophical, or theological discussion.
Khumic (Khumus)	Khumic developed without any influence from Mithric. It contains 19 letters and 200+ symbols, all of which are typically joined together in an elegant, cursive hand.
Draconic (Draconic)	Draconic is one of the oldest languages native to Magae. Spoken draconic sounds like long wheezes of sound, varying in intensity of expelled breath, in timbre, in volume, and very occasionally in the presence of glottal interjections. Written draconic is a continuous and elaborate cursive script, without distinct words or punctuation; it is thus very difficult to get a sense for the meaning of a text without reading the entire thing, as context and shades of meaning can be modified by the expressions found later in a manuscript.
Galactic Common	Space-faring galactic races, including the rudishva, varumani, varuda, kaliyani, and niravairi
Logik	Galactic experts in mathematics, physics, astronomy, and engineering

H. GODS OF MAGAE

Many deities are worshiped across Magae. Whether or not each is distinct, or merely an avatar of a set of ur-deities, is a question that has been debated by theologians in Archontos and other bastions of learning for millennia. Some heretics are even known to have claimed that deities are nothing more than mortals who have transcended death and time.

The Archontean Pantheons (aka, The Twelve and the Ten)

There were twelve original gods of Archontos, with the earliest written reference to one of them dating to 1218 SP (it refers to Thoth). Certainly, all of the Twelve were acknowledged by c.500 SP, and thus they were the gods whom the Archonteans brought with them in the great period of imperial expansion. During this golden age, the Twelve each boasted broad portfolios of 'expertise'. This made syncretism not only possible but common during the Archontean expansion: it was easy enough for the Archonteans to see in some foreign god a particular 'aspect' of one of the Twelve. Many aspects were thus 'discovered'. For instance, Sekhmet (F) came to be understood as an aspect of Wadjet, with special influence on fire and warfare. Of course, whether or not such foreign 'gods' were distinct entities or merely aspects of the Twelve was, of course, a hotly debated theological point. Some modern theologians blame this flexible and accepting approach for the gradual decline of the Twelve; these critics suggest that by claiming to encompass all things, the Twelve lost their uniqueness and thus their appeal to the broader populace. For whatever reason, worship of the Twelve had become ossified and ritualized by the time of the War of Sortians and Theosophs. By 1855 AEP, the imperial government decided to officially link itself to a new slate of deities, ones whose divine support promised to revive the empire. The new pantheon centered around ten very powerful deities ("the Ten") who were served by seventeen (or more) lesser gods. Theological cynics could and did note that many of these 'new' gods resembled the most popular of the 'aspects' of the old pantheon, but the official position is that the Ten are distinct from the Twelve. In the present, worship of the old gods is rare; some of the Twelve are forgotten, at least one (Horus) is presumed 'dead', and another (Set) is the object of secretive, illegal cult worship. The Ten and the Seventeen have clearly replaced them. For the past 500 years, the emperor has also been the subject of a cult; the theology of this is a bit fuzzy, and 'worship' of the emperor is primarily understood as a measure of loyalty more than anything else. Note: the Archonteans remain accepting of foreign gods; it is not at all uncommon to find temples or shrines to the Wiskin and Thorcin pantheons existing alongside those of their Archontean rivals within the communities of the Empire. The same, however, is not true beyond the borders of the empire; shrines and temples to the Ten are unwelcome outside the imperial boundaries.

Tingri (M), greater god)	Lawful neutral	The sky, winds, storms, procreation, creation	Raindrop, lightning bolt, yurt; spear, bow

Demi Human Deities

The various demihuman races tend to have smaller pantheons.

Dwarves: Dwarves venerate a single creator god, Zodarrim, the All Father, Shaper of Stone, First Tapper, Giver of Gifts, Lord of Battle.

Elves: The elves of Magae do not worship deities per se. They believe that creation was wrought by Valborian, who created Gildorin out of pure magic and who subsequently shaped the hundred First Elves to be Gildorin's companions. All subsequent elves are thus Valborian's children, and while they know they will return to him/her some day, they do not actively construct cults, temples, priesthoods, and so forth. Many Elves, particularly wild ones, revere nature, and acknowledge the role that Aranyania plays in human cosmogony; but again, they do not 'worship' her per se.

Half-Elves: Depending on their lineage (human or elven), half-elves follow human or elven practice.

Halflings: The small folk have a fairly limited pantheon of deities, and often worship human ones.

Imperial Goblins: The 'civilized' goblins have a fairly limited pantheon of traditional goblin deities and are often found worshipping human ones.

Dwarven God	Alignment	Areas of Influence	Symbol(s) and Weapon(s)
Zodarrim	Neutral	Creation, battle, stone-work, crafting, fertility	A stone chip, hammer; war hammer

Halfling Gods	Alignment	Areas of Influence	Symbol(s) and Weapon(s)

Griffo the Roarer (M), lesser god	Chaotic good	Feasting, drinking, oratory, parties, prosperity	Foaming mug; sword

Hamson Greenfinger (M), lesser god	Lawful good	Fields, fertility, security, harvest	Pipe-weed leaf; pole-arms
Rowan Fairbrow (F), lesser god	Neutral good	Security, protection, love	A red apple; spear

Imperial Goblin Gods	Alignment	Areas of Influence	Symbol(s) and Weapon(s)
Dapp Sapfinder (M), lesser god	Neutral	Mountain forests, growth, fertility, animals	Raccoon; spear
Glum Gaping-Maw (M), lesser god	Chaotic evil	Consumption, avarice, destruction	Fanged, gaping mouth; mace
Grindledor (M), lesser god	Lawful evil	Creation, might, judging. The Creator	Three concentric circles, a clenched fist; whip
Jacko the Frowner (M), lesser god	Neutral evil	Entropy, revenge, sorrow. Twin to Jeska	Black anvil split in two; war hammer
Jeska Pouchlifter (F), lesser god	Chaotic good	Luck, trickery, crafting. Twin to Jacko	Gold coin; hand axe

Cults and Unusual Deities

The following does not constitute a pantheon of linked gods but is rather a simple list of unusual deities. Most are inimical and thus proscribed in human and demi-human societies. Ontological questions about about some of these entities: are they demons? True deities? Something greater than the usual 'known' deities?

God	Alignment	Areas of Influence	Symbol(s) and Weapon(s)	Notes
Bajrang the Destroyer	Chaotic evil	Apes, animals, chaos	A black ape's head; club
Dagon	Chaotic evil	Water, darkness, the underworld	A single tentacle, a five-sided star; trident, spear	Also a demon prince
Frelothian	Chaotic evil	?	?	One of the seven elder deities, banished
Jeqellathon	Chaotic evil	?	?	One of the seven elder deities, banished
Mzingaloq	Chaotic evil	?	An opening door	One of the seven elder deities, banished. Waits in Lyaeltok, with its 11 servitors. Rival of Rimmaq-Isfet
Rimmaq-Isfet (see new monsters)	Chaotic evil	Salamanders, slimes, chaos	A thin black circle on a white or blue field, a sinuous tongue, an ovoid cave opening on a cliff face	One of the seven elder deities, banished. Rival of Mzingaloq
Orcus	Chaotic evil	Demons, pain, destruction, torture	Pentagram with skull in the middle of it; mace	A demon prince
Thanatos	Lawful evil	Death, burial, unlife	A glove; flail
Tsathogga	Chaotic evil	Chaos, slimes, slow destruction	A giant frog; sword	A demon prince
Yazgog the Spider	Chaotic evil	Chaos, plotting, destruction	Black widow spider; dagger
Zerig the Uncaring	Chaotic evil	Endless appetite, consumption, magic	None; dagger

NPC APPENDIX

This appendix is divided into two sections. The first section provides ten traditional NPC adventuring groups, each with a good mixture of typical adventuring classes. The second section addresses the 'magic user with flunkies' category. In each case three sets of statistics for the group are offered, one for that group at low level (levels 1-3), one for middle levels (levels 4-7), and one for high levels (levels 8-10).

A table at the commencement of each section allows a GM to randomly select a group; of course it is always worth thinking about the context in which such a group will be employed before deciding to use that group. Some GMs may decide to choose an appropriate group based on the level and interests of their PCs.

It is also important to note that some NPC groups also may be encountered as a fixed encounter in certain parts of the Halls (e.g., the Bad Neighbors, at 6-113 and 6-129). If such a group is indicated in the random table, the GM may wish to select a different group in order to preserve the integrity of the fixed encounter for that group. Of course the GM could always substitute one of the random parties for a group indicated as a fixed encounter.

I. NPC ADVENTURING PARTIES

1. Group 1: Dalton's Darlings (neutral/evil)

Leader: Dalton Erdell

General Ethos: Neutral/Evil. Dalton's Darlings are a roguish and self-centered bunch. They are quite willing to assist those more powerful than themselves and are more than willing to bully those who seem weaker.

Goals and Motives: Their goal is to get rich by looting the Halls and/or by stealing valuables from other adventurers.

Members

1. Dalton Erdell, male human (Archontean) fighter: AL CN; STR 16; INT 13; WIS 14; DEX 16; CON 10; CHA 17. Dalton is very handsome, with flowing brown hair tied back with a leather cord and a dashing smile. He is charming, a glib talker, and utterly self-centered.

2. Jason, male human (Archontean) fighter: AL LE; STR 17; INT 8; WIS 9; DEX 15; CON 16; CHA 13. Jason is short, barrel-chested, with close-cropped black hair, a long black beard and pretty blue eyes. He is vain but reserved.

3. Helga, female human (Wiskin) thief: AL NE; STR 10; INT 9; WIS 11; DEX 16; CON 15; CHA 17. Helga is big and blond, an archetypal Wiskinga warrior maiden; she has a long scar down her left cheek. By nature, she is quiet and reserved, but she has a long memory and a vengeful nature.

4. Heliagabulus, male human (Archontean) magic user: AL NE; STR 9; INT 17; WIS 10; DEX 17; CON 12; CHA 8. A member of the Collegium of Cinders, Heliagabulus is thin and ascetic, with greasy black hair and a long, Roman nose. He is distant and unpleasant, and socially insecure.

5. Isidor Half-Hand, male halfling thief: AL NE; STR 12; INT 13; WIS 16; DEX 17; CON 12; CHA 9. Isidor is a round, plump halfling, who affects ridiculous hats and bright but faded clothing. He has a strong body odor. Isidor is unctuous and completely venal. He enjoys mead and sweet rolls.

6. Yvette of Archontos, female human (Archontean) cleric of Debellaton: AL LE; STR 16; INT 7; WIS 16; DEX 10; CON 15; CHA 12. Yvette is short, with a hunched back, prematurely grey hair, and keen grey eyes. She is a social snob, which makes her imperious despite her inherent stupidity. By 9th level Yvette's WIS has increased to 17.

Group 2: Five Fingers of Destiny (neutral/good)

Leader: Roger the Rapier

General Ethos: The Five Fingers consider themselves to be dashing, bold, and highly experienced. This tends to make them appear blithe and over-confident. Still, they are not unwilling to chat with ‘neophytes.’ They might even come to the aid of an embattled party, provided the odds were good and they stood to benefit from the intervention.

Goals and Motives: They have two goals, namely 1) to eliminate dangerous and evil threats from the Halls, and 2) to procure items from AV on demand (and for a healthy) fee to interested parties in Newmarket and Narsileon.

Other: They have a catch-phrase, which Roger utters in a dramatic voice whenever possible: ‘Five Fingers ... unite!’ The phrase is accompanied by him slowly and dramatically clenching his left fist. At this, the group is expected to ‘huddle up’ to discuss/negotiate a course of action. The addition of a sixth party member (Hixonius) has made the ‘five fingers’ phrase a bit awkward.

Members

1. Roger the Rapier, male human (Archontean) magic user: AL CG; STR 10; INT 18; WIS 12; DEX 15; CON 16; CHA 12. Roger is short and stout, with a wide grin, good teeth, and a strong scent of pomade. He affects loose and colorful robes and a turban. Although he appears slightly goofy, he is quite clever and can be ruthless if needed.

2. Lucrotus, male human (Archontean) fighter: AL N; STR 18/34; INT 7; WIS 12; DEX 10; CON 16; CHA 9. Lucrotus is large, muscular, and dim-witted. He loves fighting and brawling and is fanatically loyal to Roger.

3. Jenks, male halfling thief: AL N; STR 14; INT 14; WIS 7; DEX 18; CON 10; CHA 13. Jenks is short, stout, and affable. He loves mead and toasted cheese. He’s also an incurable kleptomaniac, although he’s always filled with regret about his petty thievery.

4. Tressa of Narsileon, female human (Thorcin) cleric of Mitra: AL CG; STR 16; INT 9; WIS 16; DEX 15; CON 11; CHA 13. She is thin and severe-looking, with raven hair tied into three long tails. Despite appearances, she is quite vain. A classic cleric of Mitra, she is kind to the needy but merciless to criminals. By 6th level, Tressa has WIS 17.

5. Adelrod the Grey, male human (Thorcin) magic user: AL CN; STR 8; INT 16; WIS 12; DEX 15; CON 14; CHA 8. Adelrod is very tall and gangly (6’5”), with cropped blond hair and a tattoo of a skull over one eye. He is monosyllabic and obsessed with the undead (he is both afraid of and attracted to them).

6. Hixonius of the Glebe, male human (Thorcin) fighter: AL LN; STR 17; INT 15; WIS 11; DEX 7; CON 13; CHA 13. Barrel-chested and square-jawed, with a shoulder-length ‘prince valiant’-style haircut, Hixonius looks like a rube fresh off the farm. Despite speaking Archontean with a thick accent, he is quite intelligent.

Group 3: The Bad Neighbors (evil)

Leader: Klibo, the cleric of Heschius Ban

General Ethos: This ruthless band is highly directed, confident, and eager to locate unusual treasures and magic. Although 'evil', the Neighbors are more selfish than they are interested doing harm to others. Of course, in any dispute over territory, they live up to their nickname with ruthless ferocity.

Goals and Motives: The Neighbors are extremely interested in the rudishva. They are confident they will be able to penetrate or bypass the Obsidian Gates thereby allowing them access to the rudishva areas.

Fixed Encounter Location: 6-113, 6-129

Members

1. Klibo, male human (Archontean) cleric of Heschius Ban: AL LE; STR 13; INT 13; WIS 17; DEX 10; CON 16; CHA 15. Klibo is wiry and lean, with a luxurious black handlebar moustache. He is arrogant and something of a bully, never failing to exploit politeness or perceived weakness to his advantage. He is, however, also exceptionally loyal to 'his' team.

2. Haldor, male human (Wiskin) fighter: AL NE; STR 17; INT 7; WIS 9; DEX 15; CON 15; CHA 15. A tall, muscular, handsome Wiskin with flowing blond hair, Haldor affects tight-fitting leather clothing that shows off his physical gifts. He has a cruel streak that is only mitigated by his lack of imagination.

3. Idris One-Eye, female human (Thorcin) magic user: AL LN; STR 7; INT 17; WIS 12; DEX 16; CON 10; CHA 8. Idris lost her right eye in an apprentice's hazing ritual, so she wears a violet-colored eye-patch that has provided her nickname. She bears an abiding hatred towards the Collegium of Macrina, which she blames for her injury.

4. Uriel Bean, male halfling thief: AL CN; STR 13; INT 13; WIS 8; DEX 18; CON 15; CHA 10. Uriel dresses in black silk pajamas and slippers (even over his armor). He is somewhat reserved for a halfling, preferring to scope marks from the shadows.

5. Wotar the Puny, male human (Khumus) fighter: AL NE; STR 18/69; INT 8; WIS 10; DEX 12; CON 17; CHA 10. An expert horseman of the western steppes, Wotar is possessed of exceptional strength that is concealed by his lilted, bandy-legged gait. His beard is long and stringy, and he often has to tuck it into his belt. His command of the Archontean language is rather primitive.

6. Qid of Qon, male (?) human (Khumus) magic user: AL CE; STR 9; INT 18; WIS 11; DEX 16; CON 11; CHA 12. A short, round, Khumus nomad, Qid is completely hairless. For this reason no one is exactly sure whether Qid is male or female. He/she communicates mostly in grunts which are interpreted by Wotar.

7. Diomedes, male human (Archontean) cleric of Debellaton: AL LE; STR 17; INT 8; WIS 17; DEX 10; CON 12; CHA 14. Diomedes is convinced he has been sent by Debellaton to act as the god's harbinger of death. When anticipating battle, he paints his face as a skull. While his odd habits have not won him many friends, even within the Neighbors, he has assured Klibo that Debellaton wants him to assure the Neighbors's success.

8. Cyricus, male human (Archontean) fighter: AL LE; STR 17; INT 10; WIS 15; DEX 12; CON 15; CHA 14. A handsome lad from the slums of Narsileon, Cyricus is a bit untrained but a particularly vicious, dirty fighter with plenty of tricks up his sleeve. Don't be fooled by his winning smile ...

9. Gyrde, female human (Wiskin) magic user: AL LE; STR 9; INT 17; WIS 11; DEX 16; CON 9; CHA 9. A scrawny Wiskinga with blonde braids and bad skin, Gyrde is interested in demons ... verrrrry interested in demons.

10. Four male Thorcin bearers, noncombatants: AC 10, HP 2, 2, 1, 1.

Group 4: The Broom (Evil)

Leader: Harold Good-Ears

General Ethos: This band of cutthroats is venal and ruthless; its members believe in eliminating anyone who gets in their way, and even those who may be bystanders (hence their nickname – they ‘sweep’ everyone away). While willing to accept contracts and treaties, they are just as willing to break them when doing so is to their advantage.

Goals and Motives: While publicly they claim wealth and magical treasure as their overriding goal, privately they also enjoy slaughter for its own sake. By mid-levels they have come to use the troll thegn's court (7-75) as a base of operations, and they can be found there. At this point in their career they have slain a group of kaliyani (see 8-8), which has garnered them wide respect with the varumani. They also know the location of the goblin mystic, Gislú (see 4-2), and are eager to profit from this information.

Fixed Encounter Location: 7-75

Members

1. Harold Good-Ears, male human (Wiskin) fighter: AL CE; STR 18/77; INT 9; WIS 12; DEX 11; CON 17; CHA 15. Harold is a tall, handsome Wiskin with protruding ears. His nickname, though, comes from his ability to appear to listen sympathetically to those around him, even if he is already plotting how best to eliminate them.

2. Aethelwig the Golden, male human (Thorcin) magic user: AL CE; STR 9; INT 17; WIS 13; DEX 15; CON 12; CHA 11. Aethelwig is the second son of a powerful Thorcin thegn. Thanks to his father, he has an apparently inexhaustible supply of coin (hence his nickname). Although a product of the Imperial Academy, he hates Archonteans with a passion.

3. Hestia of Arcturos, female human (Thorcin) cleric of Ghareela: AL CE; STR 13; INT 9; WIS 17; DEX 11; CON 15; CHA 9. Short and squat, Hestia is constantly plotting how to destroy beauty and goodness. Her obsessions make her a bit extreme even for the rest of her party, which treats her with kid gloves.

4. Pella the Souse, female human (Thorcin) thief: AL NE; STR 12; INT 10; WIS 11; DEX 17; CON 15; CHA 8. A recovering alcoholic, Pella hates her nickname. She has the good luck (for her trade) for not having any distinguishing features: she looks just about like almost every other Thorcin woman whom one has seen.

5. Malachi Jade, male dwarf fighter: AL NE; STR 18/53; INT 10; WIS 10; DEX 12; CON 15; CHA 14. Malachi's predilection for cruelty and torture rendered him an embarrassment to his clan, and he was encouraged to spend some time ‘among the trees’. He is very proud of his strength.

6. Silken Turrissa, female Human (Thorcin) magic user: AL CE; STR 10; INT 16; WIS 13; DEX 18; CON 9; CHA 12. Turissa is a smooth operator, preferring to use misdirection and illusion to achieve her goals and avoid any tight spots.

7. Mulch of Skallasholm, male human (Wiskin) thief: AL CE; STR 16; INT 12; WIS 6; DEX 18; CON 15; CHA 15. Mulch seems a perfect specimen of Wiskin manhood: tall, blonde, strong, quick, and handsome (with warrior braids and a long handlebar mustache). It's too bad that he's got the common sense of a golden retriever.
